Some thoughts about architecture and other things

The architecture practice EM2N, with offices in both Zurich and Berlin, was founded by Mathias Müller and Daniel Niggli in 1997 and is currently working on projects in Switzerland, Germany and Belgium. Roughly one half of the projects are conversions. Among the office’s best-known completed projects are the Toni Areal and the Viaduct Arches, both in Zurich. Project presently at the planning stage include the Museum of Natural History and State Archives, Basel, and the Cultural Centre Kanal in Brussels.
